July 12-16: Amazing Adaptations

How do animals do what they do?! This week we will learn about the amazing ways animals use their physical and behavioral adaptations to survive in the wild.

July 26-30: Nature Art

Nature offers countless opportunities to create art! The natural world can be our drawing implements, our blank canvas, our studio, and even our paint! What art can we make with the beauty of Gilsland Farm to inspire us?

August 9-13: Avian Adventures

Birding is a great way to cue into the wildlife around us! By visiting various habitats at Gilsland Farm, we'll see how many types and species we can spot together.

August 23-27: Homes and Habitats

What does "home" look like for different animals? What can we do to better share our neighborhoods with wildlife? This week we'll look into how animals use various habitats and what we can do to help Maine's wildlife thrive!

To ensure the safety of participants, families, and staff, programs will take place entirely outdoors and we will adhere to all MCDC recommendations and guidelines for camps and schools, as well as guidance from the American Camp Association. Please visit maineaudubon.org/camps for more information.
